Science and Technology for Tomorrow's Aerospace Forces

Welcome

Welcome to Air Force Research Laboratory's Air Vehicles Directorate

The Air Vehicles Directorate has a rich heritage that dates back to 1917, when the Engineering Department was organized under the direction of the Army Signal Corps to apply and advance the research of the Wright brothers. Over the years, the names and organizations have changed. The Directorate is now part of the Air Force Research Laboratory, Air Force Materiel Command, and employs scientists and engineers with the expertise and vision to lead the way in aerospace vehicle technology breakthroughs.

Wright B Flyer circa 1903

The business strategy for Air Vehicles Directorate is guided by its mission to provide affordable, revolutionary capabilities to the warfighter that address all future threats. The emphasis is on technology investments that support cost-effective, survivable aerospace platforms capable of accurate, quick delivery of a variety of future weapons or cargo anywhere in the world. To achieve this vision, the Directorate focuses on four core competencies: aeronautical sciences, control sciences, structures, and integration. The business process for Air Vehicles utilizes an integrating concept approach that focuses our resources and technologies to provide future capabilities in the areas of sustainment, unmanned air vehicles, space access and future strike.

Our interaction with other organizations and agencies, both inside and outside the Department of Defense, is vital to our continued success. In that spirit, we produced this brochure to help you with your travel plans. We appreciate your visit and hope that this brochure will make your entire stay more productive and enjoyable.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Visiting Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Area B

Personnel visiting the Air Vehicles Directorate between the hours of 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. should enter through Gate 1B on Springfield Pike and stop at the Visitor Reception Center, Building 58 (telephone 937-255-3238), to obtain personal and vehicle passes. Vehicle registration papers must be presented. After registering, display the vehicle pass in the lower left corner of your car's windshield. This will allow you to enter and exit the base through any open gate for the remainder of that day. If you plan to arrive after 5 p.m. on a weekend or holiday, please contact the person or organization you are visiting prior to your arrival for entry instructions.

AIR VEHICLES ORGANIZATION

The Air Vehicles Directorate is our nation's lead organization for Air Force air platform technology. The Directorate researches, develops and applies the latest technology for use in military aerospace vehicles. This is accomplished by three product divisions: Aeronautical Sciences, Control Sciences, and Structures. The full spectrum of research, exploratory development, advanced development, and systems support is performed through carefully selected in-house and contracted efforts and wide-ranging cooperative programs. For more information, please visit our website at www.va.afrl.af.mil.
